Walking Mums Photography Policy

Photos are so important as they help us show what Walking Mums is all about and encourages more parents to join our community. We also recognise photographs and social media involve personal information, and people may have preferences about their child/ren. Walking Mums is committed to respecting these choices, asking for consent and protecting privacy.

Volunteers must:

- Ask for consent at the beginning of each walk and note who does not wish to be photographed
- Avoid close-up photos of any child/ren's faces
- Not photograph any child/ren or adult who you have not received consent from
- Use photographs responsibly and only for appropriate Walking Mums purposes
- Remind other walkers about avoiding taking photos of child/ren that aren't with them
- Never photograph children in a way that could be considered unsafe or inappropriate
- Not include identifying information in any photos such as named clothing or school uniforms

Participants should not be made to feel that they must appear in photographs, choosing not to be photographed will not affect their participation in Walking Mums activities.
